

ARE YOU...

...looking for a responsible position in organising international activities to connect Science with Society?

...available from January/February for at least 5 months?

...in your master phase or a starter looking for working experience?

...MEET AESIS!

The Network for Advancing and Evaluating the Societal Impact of Science, a young, international network, managed by ScienceWorks.

We bring together stakeholders in academia, government, industry and society to exchange best-practices for measuring, evaluating and stimulating societal impact.

The AESIS team is looking for a new colleague to fill the intern-position:

Project Manager “Impact of Science”

We are looking for someone who:

- Likes to engage in challenges and is motivated;
- Has demonstrable organisational experience;
- Enjoys organizing and networking;
- Has excellent command of the English and Dutch language, both in writing and speech;
- Can communicate clearly and effectively both in writing and speech;
- Is flexible and doesn't have a 9 to 5 job attitude;
- Likes to work in an international and commercial environment.

Responsibilities:

- Organisation of an international Training Course in Rome for policy makers and science funders;
- Organisation of our annual international conference “Impact of Science” in Ottawa.
- Preparations for the international conference on Social Sciences and Humanities in Copenhagen;
- Maintaining day-to-day activities for the network: updating the website, writing articles for our newsletters and updating social media;
- Assisting in extending the AESIS Network membership by initiating partnerships and developing new activities.

We offer:

- The possibility to develop and organize international activities for a young network around the theme of societal impact of science;
- Contact with international key experts and stakeholders on science funding, science policy and research management, and the possibility to take a visible network position for yourself;
- A position with much responsibility in a small, informal and dynamic organisation with many learning opportunities.
